Garry Hill, of Budgewoi, is an inspiration to those young people involved in the Transition to Work program, which helps disabled youths find employment.

Break Thru Employment Solutions offers the program which assisted Garry, 20, to attain qualifications in hospit. These qualifications landed him a job at GI Budgewoi where he has been employed for a year. Transition to Work Manager Kristy Heath said that the coffee house manager Raymond Hill is to thank.

“His cooperation and support was essential in assisting Garry into the position.” Ms Heath said.

Raymond said he was approached by the people at Break Thru and agreed to give Garry a three week trial.

“He was shy to start off with because I don't think he got much of a break from other businesses.” Mr Hill said. Garry gained a job at the coffee house and now fits into working life well.

“Now he's part of the family and is a great worker, the customers think so too.” he said.

He would recommend the program to other businesses.

Garry still visits Break Thru to inspire other youth people with disabilities and to prove that employment is an attainable goal.
